Marseille INVADER en insider

Surprise! L'artiste a débarqué dans la ville méditerranéenne pour une invasion massive de mosaïques. En bonus, une installation au MaMo, sur le toit de la Cité radieuse, transformé en atelier éphémère. Une nuit, «Libé» l'a croisé à l'œuvre sur son échelle...

Ritour d'après en bord de mer, soleil et vêtements secs. Un groupe d'horde poursuit de ses assauts un gros chat gré qui ballade le long au son du rap plein pot dans l'enceinte des écouteurs. Un couple passe en s'embrassant. Au village des Aulons, petit port de pêche du sud de Marseille, même saison de l'été. Au matin, il y a du monde et du bruit. Indifférents, les uns et les autres seraient pourtant pas s'interroger à un détail de mariage à quelques mètres d'eux : un type en pantalons de chambre orange à bandes bleues flâne avec les perchés en haut d'une échelle. Un peu tard pour un moment de laquade... Sur le mur de cette petite maison s'accrochent peu à peu des carreaux bleus, blancs, jaunes et rouges. Une fois tous accrochés un espace boudier, un motif l'in-piré du jeu vidéo des années 80 du même nom, au côté d'un gabarit, le nom local du gâteland.

«POINT D'IRRADIATION»

Est-ce que c'est droit ? Vérification avec un niveau, derniers passages de chiffres pour l'adhérence. Du bon travail. Difficile. Ça fait une bonne dizaine d'années que l'on voit l'invader pour Libé, qu'il a croisé en 2011 - et il faut bien le dire, sans pour autant personnel un peu obsessionnel - mais en rue l'aurait jamais vu en action dans la rue. Un en profite donc et se fait discret. Discrètement de l'échelle, le street artist anonyme s'agace : « J'aurais dû le montrer plus à droite... » Puis il s'en fâche à enlever le soléme, repasser l'ord bleu, descend à la pile centrale du bâtiment pour du wallon, véritable carte postale marseillaise. Bien accueilli, un proche entraîne pour la maison « Mars 2020 », vidéo lui aussi d'un panneau de chantier, dessinée dans la coiffe de la voiture

Invader : hacker de l'espace public

31/08/2020

Par Derwell Queffelec

Après Paris, New York, Lille ou Bangkok, le street artist Invader envahit les murs de Marseille du 28 août au 11 novembre avec ses avatars en mosaïque multicolores. Militant de l'art pour tous, voici comment Invader nous permet de regarder d'un œil différent l'espace public.
